San Diego River Conservancy Funds Pedestrian Bike Path Connecting Mission Valley to Beach Areas & Mission Bay

On January 17, 2008, members of the San Diego River Conservancy, including Conservancy Chair Councilmember Frye, were joined by District 2 City Councilmember Kevin Faulconer to kick off the construction of the San Diego River Pedestrian and Bike Path at Sefton Field Park in Mission Valley. Councilmember Frye commented, "The construction of this pedestrian and bike path will connect Ocean Beach, Mission Bay and Mission Valley and create a gorgeous passage-way for all members of the community to enjoy. It is a project that really adds to the beauty of the San Diego River Park and provides increased recreational access to the River."

The Pedestrian and Bikeway project will extend the existing Ocean Beach bike path along the north side of Interstate 8 between Ocean Beach and Pacific Highway to the western terminus of Hotel Circle Place (approximately 3,900 feet to the east). The bikeway will provide non-vehicular traffic with a travel route between the Ocean Beach and Old Town areas and the retail centers of the Mission Valley area. The project is scheduled to be completed during the summer of 2008. The estimated total cost of the project is $2.55 million. The River Conservancy provided $2 million in grant funding for the project.

Mike Nelson, River Conservancy Executive Director, said, "This pathway is a wonderful addition to the San Diego River Park, not only for the residents of Ocean Beach and Mission Valley to use, but for the direct gateway it will provide from inland areas to our beach communities that won't require you to get in a car." Nelson added, "People now have a significant stretch of pathway in a quiet, beautiful area to exercise on their way to the beach."

Teachers Use Art to Educate Children on Water Conservation

Students throughout San Diego are sharpening their colored pencils and stockpiling their crayons in preparation for the City of San Diego Water Department's Eighth Annual Water Conservation Poster Contest. All public, private, and home-school teachers can use art to teach their students about the benefits of water conservation, and enter the Water Conservation Poster Contest. The Water Department will accept entries through Wednesday, March 26, 2008.

Luis Generoso, City of San Diego's Water Resources Manager, is excited for the upcoming contest. "Each year, thousands of students submit some incredible pieces of art that inspire the community and transform the way we think about water conservation. We hope that this year's theme, 'Water Wins,' will motivate more teachers to talk with their students about where our water comes from and challenge them to reduce their water use."

Each student who creates a poster to enter in the contest will receive a certificate of participation. Then, 18 winners will be selected, recognized at a City Council Meeting, and will receive a U.S. Savings Bond, four tickets to the Reuben H. Fleet Science Center and a Certificate of Excellence. Winning posters will be on display in the lobby of the City Administration Building, the San Diego Watercolor Society's Gallery, and the San Diego County Fair Kids Best Art Exhibit. (Specific dates to be announced.) Winning posters will also be featured in the 2009 Water Conservation Calendar.

Additional information about the Annual Water Conservation Poster Contest, entry form and free activity book are available online at www.sandiego.gov/water/conservation. For more information, call the City of San Diego Water Department at (619) 533-5312.

Hossein Ruhi Day

Over the last 28 years, Hossein Ruhi has dedicated his considerable expertise to serving the citizens of San Diego in a variety of engineering and management positions including public works design, project management, development review, and construction management, all of which culminated in Hossein serving as the City Engineer for the last three years of his career. On January 29, Council President Peters joined Councilmember Frye in honor of Hossein's retirement and to thank him for all his hard work.

Whistleblower Protections

The independence of the city's whistleblower hotline from city management is crucial for it to work effectively. It must provide employees a safe and confidential place to lodge complaints and air concerns about any improper conduct by members of city management to an impartial and neutral party. To address this concern, Councilmember Frye and Councilmember Tony Young issued a memo on January 14, 2008 to the City's Independent Budget Analyst (IBA), to propose the following options for discussion in the upcoming budget deliberations:

- Increase staff positions in the Office of the Independent Budget Analyst, Internal Auditor, or another city department independent from management to administer the whistleblower hotline. This could be a cost neutral action as current hotline staffing could simply be shifted to another department in the city, or;
- Creation of an independent entity within the city whose sole responsibilities are to administer the whistleblower hotline, investigate complaints and address confirmed violations and unethical behavior.

The Councilmembers requested that an analysis of this proposal be presented to the Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee, along with an outline of procedures and processes that should be implemented to administer the hotline, investigate complaints and address confirmed violations and unethical behavior.

8th Annual Women & the Law Conference and Ruth Bader Ginsburg Lecture

Women have made enormous strides in the political arena and are enjoying a presence that is unprecedented in United States history. This year, with the first candidacy of a woman for the office of President, the role of women in politics is playing an even more prominent role. Thomas Jefferson School of Law and the Women and the Law Project inaugurated the Women and the Law Conference in 2001. Fostered by a committed group of faculty, staff, and students, the series was the first annual event in the western United States focusing exclusively on gender issues and the law. In 2003, with the generous support of Associate Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, who visited the law school that year, the group established the Ruth Bader Ginsburg Lecture Series.

The Women and the Law organizers are proud to present this year's topic, Women in Politics: The Role of Gender in Political Decision Making, on Friday, February 29, 2008. Councilmember Frye is honored to be one of the speakers, where she will be speaking on challenges facing female politicians. There will also be over a dozen conference speakers that will explore a number of topics, including the intersection of race, class and gender in elections, the role of gender in campaign messages, gender voting patterns, partisan differences in the nomination of women to office, female congressional candidates, and male/female judicial voting patterns.

To take advantage of this wonderful opportunity, register online at www.TJSL.edu/WomenandLaw. Registration fees begin at $25 for TJSL Alumni and other legal organizations, and members of the general public only pay $35. The conference fee includes lunch, reception and Minimum Continuing Legal Education Credits to those who qualify. This is sure to be an informative event!

CLAIREMONT COMMUNITY RUMMAGE SALE BENEFITING THE WELSH FAMILY

Making a Wave

Councilmember Frye joined local activists and philanthropists at Being Alive San Diego's Fourth Annual Soul Plates Fundraiser at Symphony Towers on January 26. Her plate, titled "Wave," and donation of lunch at Maria's on Fourth Avenue downtown, contributed to the over $18,000 raised for local services for people living with HIV and AIDS.

Painting a soul plate has become sort of a holiday tradition for the Councilmember. She receives the plain white plate and primary paint from Being Alive in December, and has time to paint during the year-end legislative break. "Wave" took roughly forty hours to create, with each of the silver and gold accents being placed on the green and white plate individually with a pair of tweezers.

For more information about Being Alive, go to www.BeingAlive.org. To see other soul plates Donna has painted, visit the "Photo Gallery" on the District Six website at www.sandiego.gov/cd6.

John & Irene Syson Presented With 2007 Grace “Peter” Sargent Award

In December, Councilmember Frye recognized John & Irene Syson after they were presented with the Grace “Peter” Sargent Award for 2007. This award recognizes individuals who make a significant contribution to Tecolote Canyon, and honors donors without whom our educational programs would wither away. Past recipients have included elected officials who provided valuable support for our canyon causes, a tribal elder who initiated a partnership with the Native American community, and volunteers who donate their most valuable asset, their time.

Last year, the Friends of Tecolote Canyon recognized two of its most valued volunteers, John and Irene. The trademarks of this duo consist of a pair of binoculars and the ever-present leather hat. Since March of 1995, even before Irene retired from the San Diego Library and John from his government position, they devoted their time to Tecolote Canyon and the Nature Center.

Many a Sunday finds them at the Nature Center keeping the doors open for visitors, and both have participated in numerous canyon cleanups. Irene is an avid birdwatcher, with binoculars in hand keeping everyone aware of which birds are in the area. John, who introduces himself as “The Old Man”, has many unique skills to offer. He has built tables for Center equipment and exhibits, patrols with Ranger Jeff to check on homeless encampments, and helps to ensure that park users are following the rules and regulations. When the red curb out in front of the Nature Center starts to look dingy and faded, John gets out his trusty paintbrush, paint and bucket and brightens it up again. Councilmember Frye thanks Irene and John Syson for their dedication and congratulates them on receiving this award.

Need to Get Rid of Old Batteries? Read On....

All types of batteries are considered hazardous waste. Batteries may contain heavy metals including cadmium, lead, lithium, mercury, nickel, silver and zinc. According to California State Law, batteries and other types of universal waste are no longer accepted at Miramar Landfill or any other solid waste landfill.

Where Can I Recycle Alkaline Batteries?

Alkaline batteries (AA, AAA, C, D and 9 volt) contain a corrosive chemical and other heavy metals. As of February 9, 2006, batteries are banned from landfill disposal. The City of San Diego is working with private companies to increase the number of local recycling opportunities. Currently batteries can be recycled at these locations:

- IKEA, 2149 Fenton Parkway, San Diego, 92108, (619) 563-4532
- Recycle San Diego, 7716 Clairemont Mesa Blvd., San Diego, 92111, (866) 525-6655 (fee applies, call first)
- City of San Diego Household Hazardous Waste Transfer Facility (HHWTF), located at the Miramar Landfill entrance on Convoy Street, just north of State Highway 52. Please call 858-694-7000 to make the required drop-off appointment.

Where Can I Recycle Rechargeable Batteries?

Rechargeable batteries such as nickel cadmium (NiCd), lithium ion (Li-ion) and small sealed lead (Pb, weighing less than 2 pounds) are used in a wide variety of products including cell phones, cordless phones, cameras, electronic devices, razors, remote controls, and cordless power tools.

California law (AB1125) requires most retailers that sell rechargeable batteries to accept and recycle these consumer batteries. Check with your local retailers or visit the Rechargeable Battery Recycling Corporation website at www.rbr.org to find a location.

Where Can I Recycle Vehicle Batteries?

Automotive, golf cart, marine, and other vehicle batteries are not universal waste, however, they are banned from landfill disposal. Used vehicle batteries are regulated under different regulations. Most retailers that sell vehicle batteries will accept the used battery for recycling at no charge. Generally, the price of the new battery is reduced when a used battery is turned in. Ask the retailer before you purchase a new battery or look in the yellow pages under "Batteries-Storage-Retail." The City accepts vehicle batteries at Auto Product Recycling Events or at the HHWTF.

Battery Storage

Store used batteries sorted by type (alkaline, lithium, nickel cadmium, ect.) in a safe, dry place and out of the reach of children. Use zip lock bags or a plastic container with a lid. For an extra measure of safety, place masking tape or nonconductive tape over the battery terminals (battery ends). If a battery is damaged or leaking, immediately place the leaking battery into a plastic or zip lock bag and isolate from other batteries. Wear nitrile gloves when handling damaged batteries and wash your hands.

Household Hazardous Waste Transfer Facility

The HHWTF accepts all types of consumer batteries, rechargeable batteries and vehicle batteries. The HHWTF is open Saturdays by appointment only. For more information or to schedule an appointment contact Environmental Services Department at (858) 694-7000.

Avoid a time consuming trip to the HHWTF just to recycle batteries. Store used batteries for up to one year or 5 pounds allowing time to accumulate all household hazardous waste to be dropped off at the same time, or implement a collection program with your neighbors.

Do Something Good for the Community and.... Find a Date for Valentines Day?

In the spirit of Valentine's Day, I Love a Clean San Diego (ILACSD) will be partnering with Envirockers, a local environmental group, to take a new twist on February's clean up event. That's right—this month's event is the Singles Mingle Cleanup!

Of course, you don't have to be single to attend, but the ILACSD group thought it would be fun to give equally eco-minded community members a chance to get involved in protecting the environment while possibly finding a date for Valentine's Day, and a chance to win prizes for those who pick up the most trash!

The event will be held on Saturday, February 11 from 10:00 am to noon, and the mingling will follow!

The location has yet to be determined, so for more information about this and other 2008 events, visit the ILACSD website at www.ilacsd.org.

Doug Beckham Day

On January 29, 2008, Councilmember Frye recognized long-time Linda Vista resident and community volunteer, Doug Beckham, by proclaiming it to be "Doug Beckham Day" in the City of San Diego.

Doug has served on various community organizations, including the Linda Vista Community Planning Committee, the Kearny High School Alumni Association, the Linda Vista Parade of Flags, the Linda Vista Landscape and Maintenance Committee, and the Linda Vista Graffiti Removal Team.

He has also served as President of the Linda Vista Recreation Council and the Kearny Mesa Kiwanis, Chair of the Linda Vista Code Compliance Committee, and was Co-founder of the Linda Vista Neighborhood Watch.

While serving on these organizations, Doug has contributed to many projects and programs, and has helped connect local organizations to resources and information that help further their objectives and better the community. Thanks Doug!
